

Project name: Second Dome
Architect: DOSIS
Location: London, England, UK Date: 2016

This bright, bulbous form, created by Spanish architects DOSIS, functioned as a playful and adaptable events space. The giant plastic enclosure is hard to miss with its distinctive transparent and yellow polka-dotted bubbles. The space is reconfigurable, able to transform from a single 65 sq m (700 sq ft) area into a multi-chamber structure of over 400 sq m (4,300 sq ft) in minutes. Its presence, pictured here in East London's London Fields, provided a curious, bold and fun insertion into public space.
